SCHOOL LIFE...

Nancy Dean appears to he in deep concentration as she transposes a photograph to a sketch.

Art students use enthusiastic Joe Golando as a live model for their sketches.

Art students work with leather and string in their macramé project.

Macramé introduced to art classes

Rob Nelson assists a fellow art student in the handling of inking a stencil.

Macramé, the art of creative knotting, was one of several projects introduced in art classes this year. For the first time, students made geometric string figures and paraffin candles, while some transformed eggs into opp art creations.

With the assistance of student teachers throughout the year, Mr. Cain taught art classes the basics of sculpturing and drawing. The student body viewed the results of the art program in the various show cases.

Snake dance led by Pep Band takes students to outdoor pep-session.

Band illustrates versatility

The Marching Vikings, directed by Mr. Robert Miller, entertained during halftime at home football games. At the close of football, the band auditioned for positions in the concert band, which gave performances in the Christmas program and the Spring Concert. They also participated in the state contest and NISBOVA.

The proceeds from the annual Ham Dinner held at T.J. were used toward the purchasing of badly needed uniforms.

The pep band played their spirit-lifting marches during pep sessions and football and basketball games.

Mary Dust helps Nicky Hasse get ready for a half-time performance.

Mr. Rohn consults with a beginning typing pupil on proper typing techniques.

New class added; lab class revised

For the first time a clerical lab for prospective business employees was introduced. The lab gave the non-shorthand student an opportunity to apply all former business training to a business-type situation.

Nine girls enrolled in the two-hour secretarial lab. Three years of planned scheduling are necessary for this class. The course prepared future secretaries in business techniques.

In other business classes, bookkeeping, business law, clerical records, sales, shorthand, and typing, pupils learned that patience and practice are two rules a business student never forgets.

Second year typist, Darlene Bator, concentrates on accuracy to complete her job with no errors.

"Eyes on copy, feet on floor, palms up, and sit up straight" are all familiar commands heard in typing classes.

Cathy LePell learns that it requires dictation practice to master first year shorthand.

Adding machines simplify the complicated process of bookkeeping.

Wondering if he'll make it back, Mr. Stokes is found in another student practice car.

One hour a week is specified for driving practice.

Waiver added to the driver's education classes

Rick Roberts shows how to "buckle up for safety."

"Waiver" was a new term used in the driver's education classes this year. Students who had successful practice sessions, and a better than average class record received a stamp or waiver on their cards. This means they went directly into the "driver's seat" without a state road test.

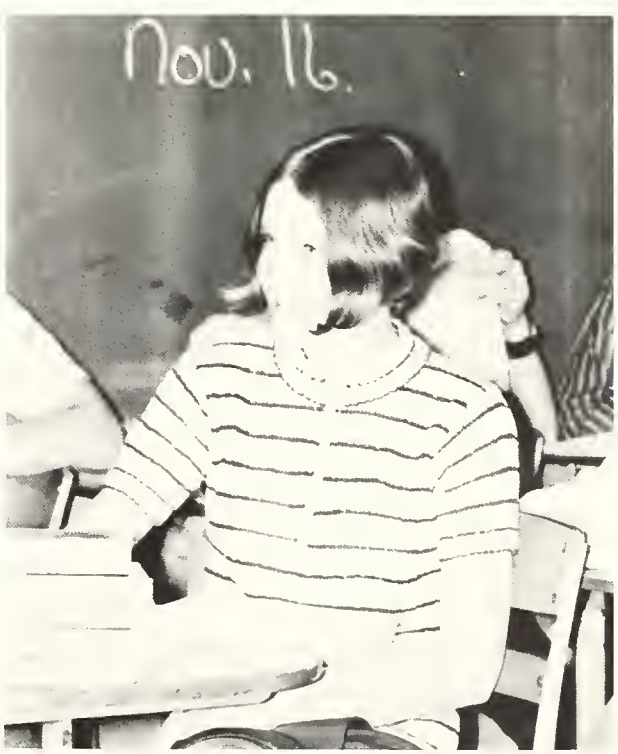
"Adjust your seat, check your mirror, fasten your seat belt," was typical driver's education jargon heard in all driver's education courses. Mr. Stokes, the instructor, showed films illustrating how health, sleep, alcohol, and drugs affect driving directly.

Health classes discuss relevant problems

Health and safety classes studied the effects and problems of cigarettes, alcohol, and drugs, in addition to the usual home, water, and car safety rules.

Speakers, demonstrations, and outside reading materials supplemented classroom discussions. Mrs. Hildreth, the school nurse, spoke about the importance of public health and the role of the Porter County Health Department. Mr. Sweet demonstrated the functioning of human organs by bringing the lungs, heart, and liver of a cow to class.

Mr. Sweet illustrates the flexibility of hand muscles to his students.



Marcia Dennis learns that health and safety can be fun.

Mr. Ciciora backs a statement with a quote from the text.

Choir stages folk concert

"With a Little Help From My Friends" was the theme of the folk concert that the choral department gave. The concert was a tremendous success making $500 for Choir A's new uniforms, tuxedos and formals. This year director Bernard Butt divided the 171 choir members into the three groups — Choir A and B and Girls' Glee Club. The Christmas concert had record-breaking attendance with standing room only. Besides going to contest, the choir went to Tri-City Festival with Chesterton and Portage. In March they sponsored the University Singers, a swing choir from Ball State, that has two ex-VHS choir members.

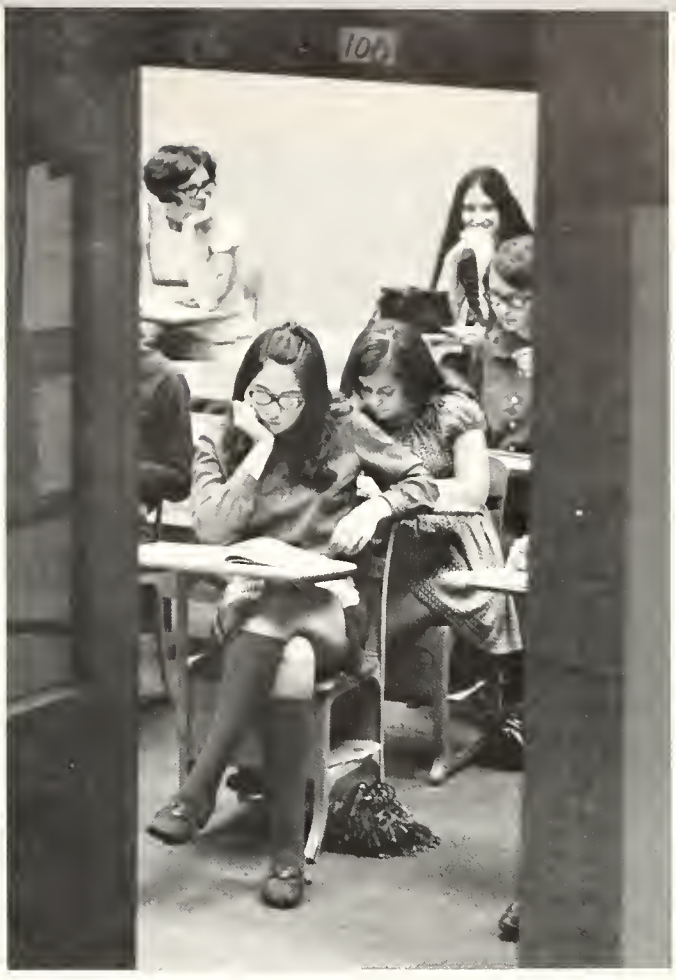
Lindy Staats prepares for comprehensive tests taken by junior English students.

Exhaustion catches Lynise Pion after work on her term paper.

Organization ties English classes together

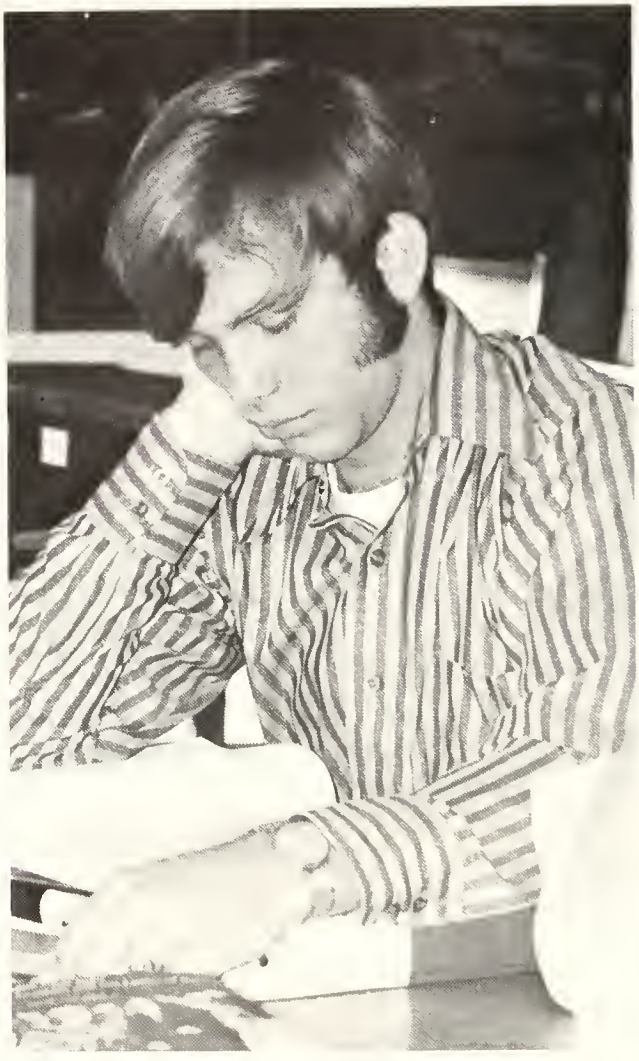
According to Mrs. Clark, "Organization is what's new" in the English department this year. All grades were coordinated so that the specified material would be covered simultaneously. This was especially effective when ordering film strips, records, and movies.

Seniors experienced a revolutionary change in their English courses. Because of the "mini" courses, seniors found they could take specific courses of their own interest. Juniors studied term papers and American Literature from Bradford to Sandburg. Sophomores sampled types of writing from all time periods.



Becky Griffin and Kathy Hunsburger learn the importance of independent study.

Dave Bender and Carol Anderson listen as Miss Shaver gives instructions on bibliography.



Rick Miller finds solitude in VHS library.

Walt Suffern and Joyce King use the card catalog to help build their bibliographies for English.

One hundred new books added to library

The addition of 100 new books increased the school library, for the 1970-71 school year, to 8,200 volumes.

With the help of Mr. Gardin and student librarians, pupils learned how to use and respect library facilities such as the card catalog, magazine stacks, and various reference books.

The 14 student librarians forfeited their study halls to work five hours a week in the library. They checked out books, hunted down "lost" magazines, and assisted students.

Pat Longnecker, Amy Bibler, Rick Armalavage, and Margie McGill use library facilities for term paper research.

As one of their duties, Don Rowland and Jenniter Lawrence sort cards.

Science studies theories

The five science courses, applied science, first and second year chemistry, general physics, and physics, involved interaction of particles and chemical reactions.

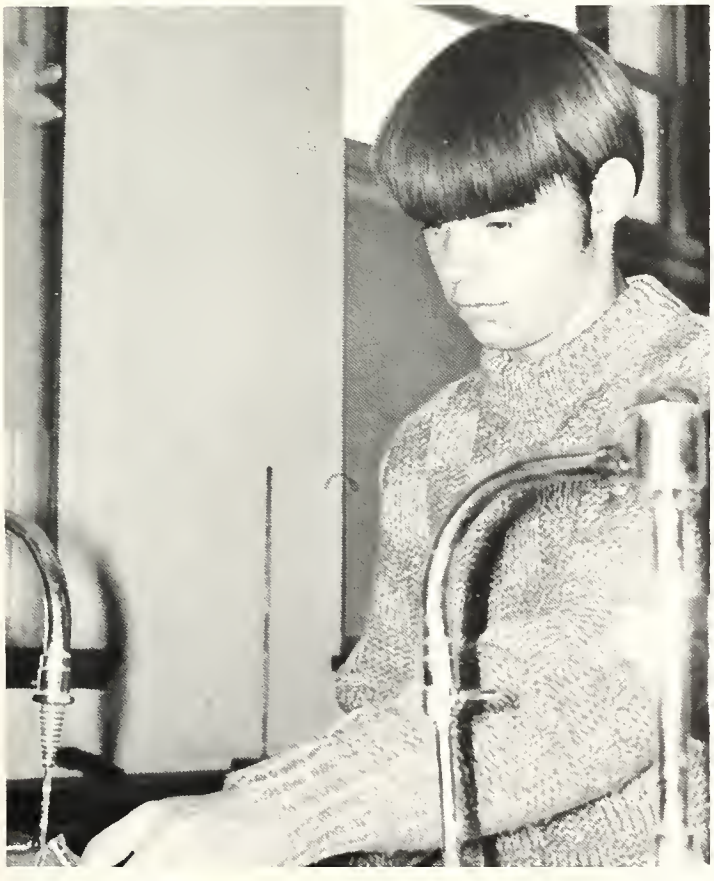
Slide rules and exploring periodic tables prepared the first year chemistry student for the lab research done in second year chemistry. Scientific theories were dealt with in general physics and physics classes. Both classes stressed laboratory problems and inquiries. Applied science pupils studied the main points of both chemistry and physics.

Before drawing up their conclusions, Pat Newstead and Debbie Weiss confer.

Plastic aprons protect Jim Doane's and Bob Gray's clothing from hydrochloric acid.

Seniors Pat Mann and Nancy Trapp evaporate a liquid with the use of a Bunsen burner and help from Mr. Hunn.

Class activities include writing up observations and conducting experiments.



Part of laboratory work is cleaning up the "mess" afterwards, as Brad Dibkey well knows.

Weighing chemicals to aid her in an experiment is junior Cindy Bedell.

Math classes modernized with new math books

Space, trigonometry, and hypothetical situations are encountered in the different phases of math offered at VHS. This year all classes, except honors geometry, obtained new books to up date the courses.

Students learned a completely different thought process through proofs in sophomore geometry. Advanced algebra dealt with logarithms and other difficult math. Senior math class students diligently put all past mathematical training to use learning such things as calculus and analytical geometry.

Several VHS math students competed in the annual Math Invitational held in May, which is open to all math pupils in Northern Indiana.

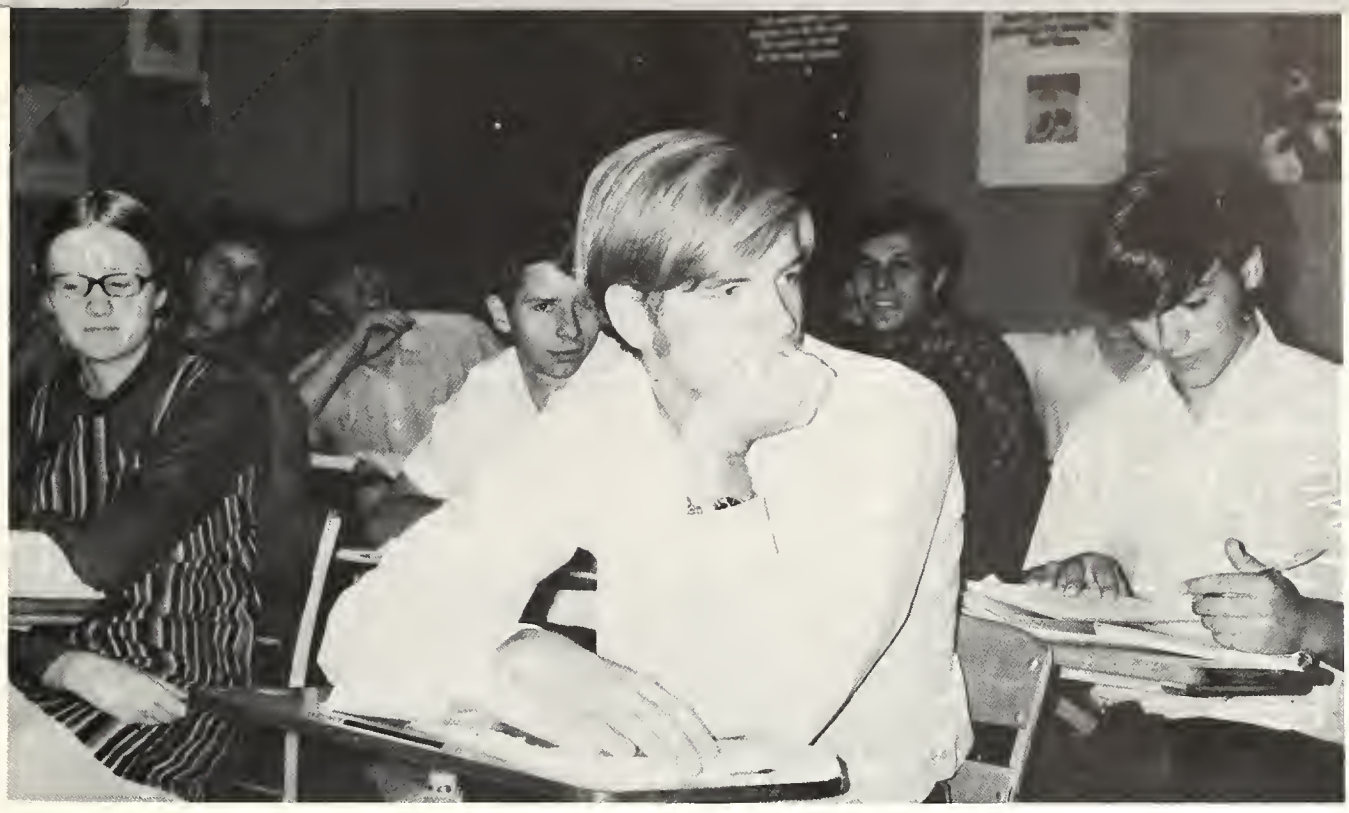
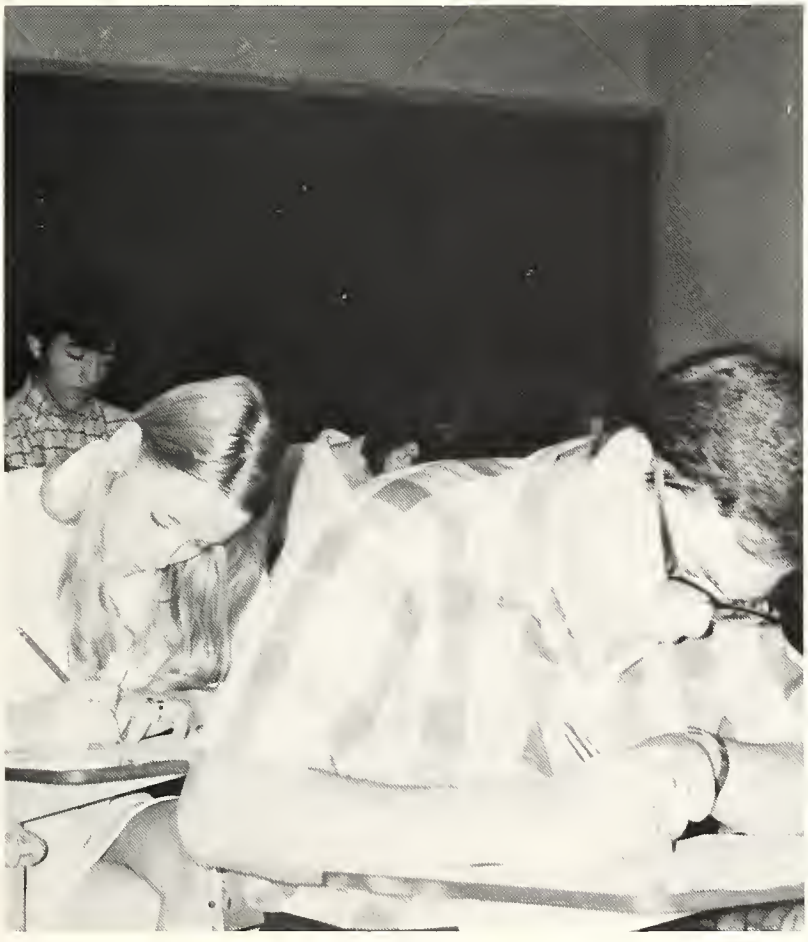
Using the distance formula, senior math student Tom Kruse proves a quadrilateral is a rhombus.

Steve Moser listens attentively as Mr. Scott explains symmetry.



Students use their powers of concentration in visualizing mathematical equations.



On a math test, honors students utilize their knowledge of advanced logic.

Ted Dougherty's response to a question on co-ordinate geometry adds humor to math class.

New facilities aid physical education classes

Al Cherry demonstrates spring board form for his phys. ed. class.

This year in the girl's physical education course, instructed by Mrs. Lynn Dickinson, a wide range of possible activities was given. Besides volleyball, archery, and tumbling, the girls were given a chance for involvement in dance, field hockey, and isometrics.

Mr. Virgil Sweet stressed a non-competitive program, with the boys working in groups or as individuals with tumbling routines.

Since the complete renovation of the gym and lockerrooms,the phys. ed. programs can be covered more thoroughly.

Mike Thebo tries a flip with the aid of spotters and a safety belt.

Push-ups are included in the warm up ritual.

Kim Doane "psyches up" during sophomore gym class.

French and Spanish classes add fourth year

Jonnie Woidke and Diane Steck compose a humorous German skit.

Reading novels, and writing compositions added variety to the new fourth year French and Spanish classes. Third year pupils read foreign books. Second year classes studied history and culture, as well as grammar.

Students broke from the regular classroom routine to go to Chicago. Latin students went to museums and saw Roman culture and art. German pupils dined at the Zum Deutschen Ecke, a German restaurant. All VHS students were offered the opportunity to travel through Europe during the summer under the sponsorship of the various language classes.

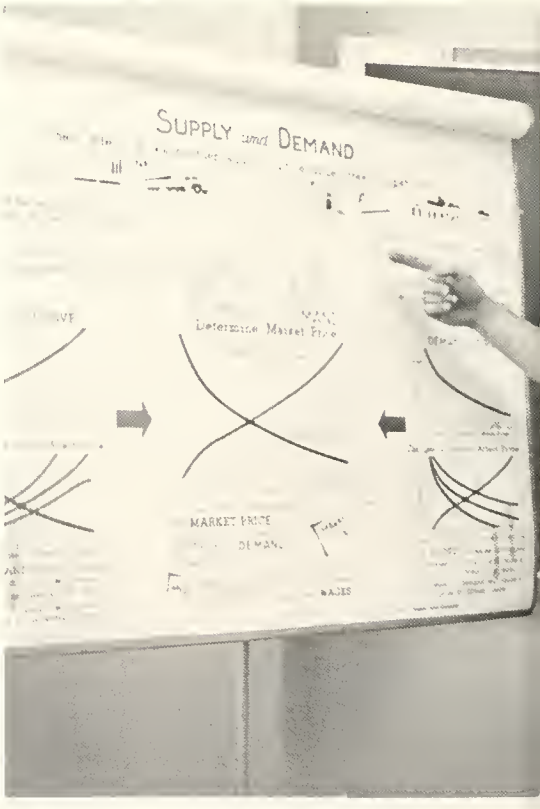
Bert Peeler is baptized in his second year Spanish class, "por las senoritas."

Wayne Cohen and Robin Ackerman present their French dialogue to Mr. Geiss.

Paul Irvine dons his authentic helmet for German class.

Kay Anderson and Diana Lain conduct a mirror experiment to test their manual dexterity.

By answering Betsy Morris' question, Mr. Beckmeyer gains experience while student teaching a U.S. History class.



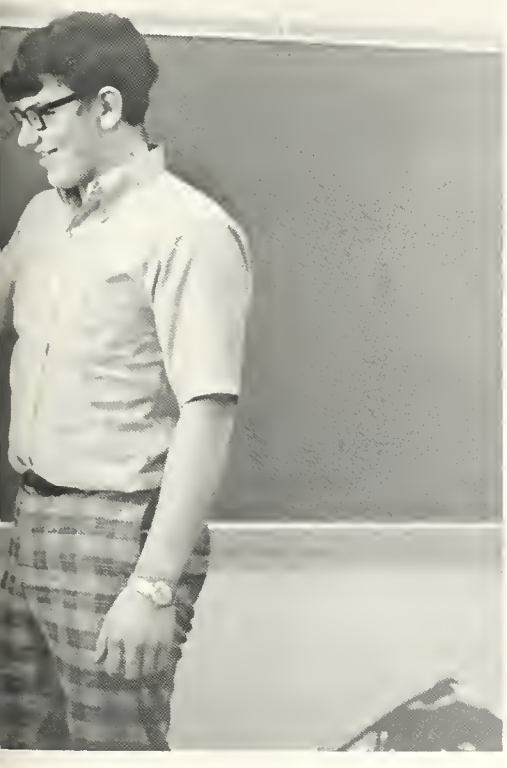
An economics class benefits from Tom Koselke's explanation of supply and demand.

Social studies accents today's life styles

Many of the social studies courses were applied to our every day living this year. A V.U. law professor explained to civics classes the rights of citizens while they're under arrest. Sociology students made surveys on drugs and censorship and then applied them to contemporary life.

Current events were a major part of history classes, resulting in discussions on abortion and Viet Nam. Mr. Stanier's economic classes brought in advertisements that illustrated humor and emotional appeal in advertising technique. Skits and experiments ranging from teaching a child how to read in psychology to a seance bringing back Nicholas III in European History were also done.

Tom Poweska, Linda Brodsky, and Paula Oliver discuss the law of diminishing utility.



New equipment aids in shop skills

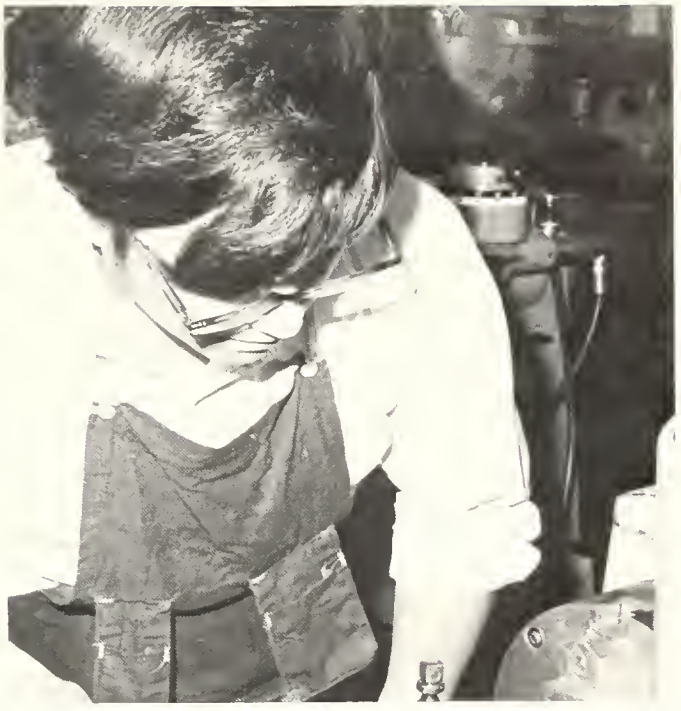
New additions in the shop department were a new squaring shear for metal cutting, a rotary machine for making seams in metal, and a slip roll machine for cone shapes.

General metals classes made roasting forks, name plates, hangers, and garden trowels. Vocational machine shop resembled real working conditions. Drawing classes, were given the chance to draw plans in detail and to construct a miniature of a house. Machine drawings class worked on assembly productions and exploded isometrics. Wood working classes constructed podiums for the teachers and a scorer's bench for basketball.

Steve Ficken assists Jim Mark in bending circles for fruit baskets.

Ken Ludington displays his skills at working the drill press.

Don Rowland employs accuracy and precision in drafting class.



Wearing goggles to protect his eyes, Mike Finley operates the lathe.

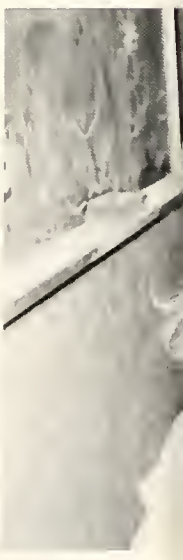
Jim MacKenzie manipulates the band saw to produce letters for a weather vane.

The new refrigerators, part of the home ec. room renovation, require periodic cleaning during class.

Homemaking becomes diversified

The home economics classes worked on several varied projects this year. The girls dabbled in everything from child development study to interior decorating. Mrs. Miinch, new to VHS, brought many diversified projects such as making ties and tie-dying. The child development classes worked with children at a local kindergarten to observe educational technique. Interior design, layout, and landscaping were all part of the interior decorating program. The girls drew their own ideas and plans for their home. The students made use of their new demonstration table, where both the teacher and other students could observe projects and demonstrations.

During a child development class, Claudia Newell observes a child for passive or aggressive characteristics.



Washing and sorting dishes is a big job in the new kitchens.

Children aged between three and five visit home ec. classes for a day.

John Mortimer, home ec. student, samples his first assignment of the year.

Vocational club benefits community

The VHS chapter of the Vocational Industrial Club of America, sponsored by Mr. Pollock, worked on various projects that benefited the community. VICA members painted trash containers, and the guide lines on parking lots. Community projects included building Soap Box Derby testing equipment and the repairing of old toys for needy families at Christmas time.

The Home Economics Club, directed by Mrs. Miinch, gained experience in handicrafts as well as homemaking. The members toured the Home Ec. department of Indiana University and shopped at large South Bend stores to practice making wise buying decisions.

Hi-Y 'adopts' girl from India

The Hi-Y attempted a new charity project this year — adopting a six-year old girl from India. The members sent her financial aid at regular intervals. Hi-Y boosted its earnings by selling hard hats at the beginning of basketball season and by showing old films, such as "The Pit and the Pendulum", at a makeshift movie theater in the auditorium.

The club sponsored the annual Christmas dance, held on December 21. It proved to be a huge success. The Hi-Y-faculty game in which the members and teachers participated, gave its proceeds to the Shriner's Children Fund.

Hi-Y members, Steve Malasto, Bob Zentz, Phill Sachtleben, and Rick Armalavage, usher at the Rochester game.

FTA OFFICERS: Kathy Ziliak, secretary-treasurer; Sharon Kotefka, president; Donna Gast, vice-president.

Student teachers instruct grade-schools

As part of their club activities, FTA members participated in the cadette-teaching program. Girls went out to the various community grade-schools and taught portions of the classes for three days. This program, held in the second semester, gave senior girls an opportunity to see what future jobs might be like.

Speakers often participated in the monthly meetings. Mrs. Woycik, a Vale Day teacher, talked to FTA members about special education. Mrs. Roberts, a Thomas Jefferson Elementary teacher, and Mr. Christian, the English co-ordinator at Valpo High, also discussed prospective teaching jobs open to future teachers.

Inter-school sport teams formed

Regina Hyatte, - Publicity; Mrs. Dickinson, sponsor; Sue Pritchard, treasurer; Jan Paschen, president; Mrs. Pokorny, sponsor, Alexis Olson, secretary; Joni Ohler, vice-president.

New for the 1970-71 GAA is the organization of inter-school sport teams. The teams of basketball, gymnastics, track and field, and volleyball created many opportunities for frequent participation. The volleyball team practiced two times a week.

GAA, directed this year by Mrs. Dickinson and Mrs. Pokorney, started the treasury off with a money making project — the sale of sweater shirts, and the annual GAA Sadie Hawkins Dance.

GAA officers Regina Hyatte and Sue Pritchard talk with Mrs. Dickinson about the GAA uniforms.

Girls aid school spirit

At Smith-Walbridge Cheerleading Camp the varsity cheerleaders won a spirit stick which signifies excellance in performance and attitude.

The J.V. cheerleaders, built spirit by leading the sophomores at pep assemblies and games.

Miss Barbara Raines sponsored the cheerleaders and the Vikettes. These pompom girls, choreographed by Lura, entertained at all home football and basketball games.

Charities benefit from Scrooge Contest

National Honor Society named the winners of the Mr. Scrooge and Tiny Tim contest, Mr. Miller and Bob Stoner, during the NHS Christmas convocation. The money, collected as votes, went to the John Tomzak fund, Opportunities Enterprise, and the foreign exchange program.

Working in late summer and at the start of each semester, the NHS carried out their major program — the sale of used books. Members ushered at concerts and plays and also established a small tutoring service for VHS students.

At mid-year, during a convocation before the entire student body, NHS installed 20 new senior members and 19 new junior members.

Pep Club bolsters Green and White enthusiasm

The traditional soap bowl and bake sales were held before school began to "fire up" the students. A bonfire and dance marked the beginning of football season. Pep sessions, dances, and halls draped with signs added to the enthusiasm. In honor of the 10-0 season, Pep Club sponsored a victory celebration and a parade through town.

The cape and hard hat sections kindled basketball spirit. Sock hops, assemblies, and a Mr. Legs Contest added to the season's tempo. The various sport heads inspired the minor sports. These girls encouraged attendance, organized student participation, and made treats for the teams. New officer elections and a banquet climaxed the year.

Student Parking and Senior Exams become major issues in Council

The Student Council started the year off with a renovated constitution while they also established new VHS club charters.

With the assignment of parking places, stickers, and tickets, the Student Council effectively answered the student parking problem. Council also shortened the length of senior exams and scheduled them one week earlier.

Chosen members took part in the inter-city council, which exchanged new ideas and goals with other councils.

The 1970-71 Student Council officers, Jonni Woidke, v-pres.; Pat Weidman, sec.; and John Roscoe, treas., discuss plans for the next meeting.

D & D presents "Li'l Abner", "Up the Down Staircase"

Drama and Debate Club, directed by Mrs. Grotrian, opened the year with their version of Li'l Abner, followed by Up the Down Staircase in May. Members also gave the traditional Christmas play and presented the highly successful "March Madness."

Debate Club joined Indiana High School Forensic Association, which gave them the opportunity to argue on the pollution problem. Argument winners received ribbons and trophies.

Current Events Club gets involved

Mrs. Bauman and Jeff Neeley converse with Judge Russell Nixon after viewing a malpractice trial.

A car wash at the beginning of the year raised money to sponsor the many trips which the Current Events Club took. The club traveled to Chicago to see the main police station and to visit the Art Museum, the Planetarium, and the Oriental Institute. They also made a trip to the courtroom in Valparaiso to observe a trial for malpractice.

This year, being an election year, the Current Events Club sponsored mock elections in which the students voted for government officials. At the end of the year, the club held a picnic for all members and their guests at the Dunes.

Science Club stresses individual projects

This year's Science Club saw a severe reduction in the number of members, due to lack of participation and interest. The formation of a Jet's Club for math and science students which is affiliated with the National Society of Professional Engineers, was in the hopes of the sponsors.

In the plans of the club's officers was the opportunity to take trips to various museums in Chicago and to get guest speakers. Besides these plans, each member was responsible for individual projects.

Using their scientific knowledge, Cliff Sacks and Richard Koelemeyer create a waterstill.

V-teens' service spreads to all parts of the world

After the candlelight induction ceremony, the V-teens, sponsored by Miss Craig, began the year by saving Clark gum wrappers for UNICEF. Dilly bags for men in Vietnam, birthday cakes for County Home residents, and a Thanksgiving basket for a welfare family were a few of the other impressive V-teens projects.

In November, the traditional Desserts for Dads was held, followed by the King of Hearts Dance in January. Proceeds from the dance went to the Heart Fund as the spring project.

Valpost strives for modernization

New journalistic techniques, student opinion, and art work were factors in the modernization of the Valpost.

For idea collecting, Dianne Graham and Pam Niequist, junior editors, attended the National Scholastic Press Convention in Chicago. In spring the staff attended a workshop at Valparaiso University.

Valenian takes on a new outlook

Many changes played an important part in making this year's Valenian unique. For the first time, a junior editor and a male staff member contributed their work to the book. Along with a new sponsor, Miss Karen Foster, the staff moved to a new room. Changes in the book itself included a reduced number of pages and the discontinuation of paste-ups. A trip to Chicago for the National Scholastic Press Association Convention helped the representatives apply new ideas to a successful book.

Work on the book progressed slowly at first; but after much confusion and determined hard work, the staff became unified. Work continued to produce a book totally different to VHS.

VHS becomes Holiday Tourney Champion

The Viking's victories at the Frankfort Holiday tourney highlighted their 1970-71 season. This was the Vike's first holiday championship since 1965. Tom O'Neill, a 6'5" senior, ended the year with a 20.8 point average.

Jeff Butterfield led the team in defense, while Mike Frey and Larry Domke led in assists and rebounding. The season ended with a heart-breaking loss to Portage, 81-80, in the sectional. This was only the second time in fifteen years that the Vikings have not won the Sectional.

The schedule, including teams such as E.C. Washington, Gary Roosevelt, and Bishop Noll, proved to be one of the toughest in Coach Sweet's 17 years as Viking coach.

The final record was 13 wins and 8 losses. Mr. Ciciora's junior varsity team ended their season with a 12-8 record. Richard Metzger broke the rebounding record by grabbing 186 rebounds for one season.

Team 3 wins finals

Eighty boys participated in this year's intramural program. Steve Malasto, scoring 524 points, and Mike Will scoring 481 points, ended the 21 game season as high point men. Of the eight teams, Team 3, captained by Rick Conklin, ended up in first place with a record of 16 wins and 5 losses.

A tournament, played March 8 and 11, saw Team 3 as the victors, defeating Team 1 in the finals.

Out of the 15 teams in the sectionals at Gary Wirt, the matmen finished 10th with Kevin Rhynard placing high with a 2nd. Kevin also received the varsity trophy for most pins and Scott Smith and Keith Selby tied for the most take-downs.

The junior varsity trophies for most take-downs and pins went to Dan Evans; who, along with Jay Costas and Bob Adgate, was chosen most promising wrestler for next season.

VHS Green and White complete another 10-0 season.

The Varsity football team compiled the magic record of 10-0, raising their string of consecutive victories to 25. Coaches Stokes, Stanier, and Rhoda led the team to these tremendous victories.

Chuck Wellsand, outstanding junior wingback, tallied 132 points in a single season, surpassing Coach Rhoda's 1938 record of 125 points. With 1375 yards and 17 touchdowns passed, Jeff Butterfield broke the old passing yardage record.

At the season's end, the United Press International ranked the Vikings fourth in the state. Named to the All-State team were four of the Vikings, John Roscoe, Chuck Wellsand, Bob Zandi, and Tom Griffiths.

Spurred on by the Varsity, the J.V. team had a successful 7-2 season. Guided by Coaches Reggie and Murphy these boys are ready for another great season in 1971.

Laurie named 1970 Homecoming Queen

Tons of paper cheese, a crazy yellow horse, and a car smash were part of Homecoming 1970. At the Pep Rally Friday, Spirit Week was climaxed with seniors being presented the Spirit Stick for the most enthusiasm shown.

A win of 17-7 over Chesterton helped make the Homecoming Dance held at Thomas Jefferson Jr. High School a joyous affair. The casino-type theme of "Spinning Wheels" was carried out by a gambling wheel, huge playing cards, and dice with queen candidate profiles silhouetted upon them. Dance music was provided by "Clearlight." The evening was highlighted at 11:00 when Laurie Eason was announced as queen, and Sari Asher as princess.

Triumphant Viking fans express their feelings about a 1970 win over Chesterton.

Excited fans await the arrival of the Vikes.

Heart Fund receives $200 donation

The Heart Fund received $200 from the annual King of Hearts Dance, sponsored by the V-Teens and held on January 30. "Alice Through the Looking Glass" was the theme with a "looking glass" entrance and gigantic mushrooms with caterpillers on the gym floor. Cupids and hearts on the walls symbolized the traditional ideas of Valentines.

At 10:00 the previously elected court was led to a flaming red heart for the coronation. Mike Frey was announced Prince of Hearts and Mary Phillips then crowned Rick Miller King. Then the couples danced to a dreamy "Summertime" which the Muggles, a V.U. band, provided.

Dean Schroeder and Becky Trapp let the "sweetheart" atmosphere take hold of them.

The enchantment of "Through the Looking Glass" captures even the youngest, Tina Schlobohm and Tommy Reichard, crown and scepter bearers.

Bob Gathmann and Lori Gesse enter a world of fantasy.

Mary Phillips, V-teens president, crowns Rick Miller King before a crowd of nearly 300.

Cindy Bedell, Paul Wilson, Barb Mundy, and Bob Siddall gather for casual conversation as anticipation mounts.

"Christmas Fantasy" fills the air

Christmas spirit filled the minds of VHS students entering the gym on December 19 for the annual Hi-Y Chirstmas Dance. Santa Claus and Mr. Toming, the Hi-Y sponsor, greeted the couples with candy canes and bids. The Hi-Y members transformed the gym into a world of "Christmas Fantasy." Red and white crepe paper draped from the corners of the gym centered above a majestic poplar, blinking with colored lights. Numerous evergreens decorated the remaining gym. After dancing to the beat of "Warm Grass," the couples drifted from the gym carrying memories of a Christmas dream.

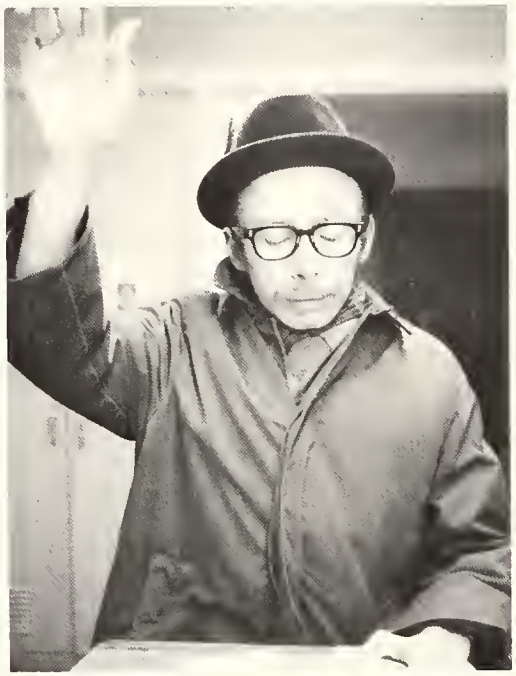
Sadie Hawkins held in fall instead of spring

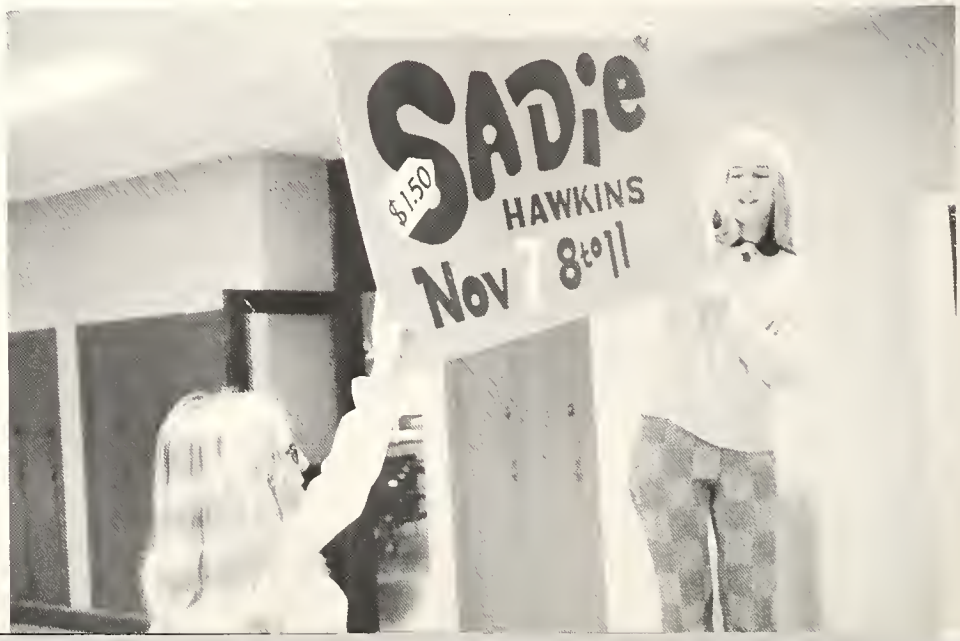
Due to the fact that the spring at VHS is so full of activities, the GAA held the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance in the fall. On the night of November 7, 45 couples dressed in their "glad rags" entered Dogpatch U.S.A.

While Li'l Abners were "corraled" by their Daisy Maes, the Twelfth Night provided the foot-stomping music. Between songs, the GAA provided popcorn, cider, apples, and crackers as refreshments. The "lovers" also had the opportunity to have their pictures taken in the Dogpatch setting.

Barb Mundy and Bob Siddall pose to capture the memory of their Dogpatch-style wedding.



"Marryin' Sam" Bird solemnly performs his "two dollar weddin'."



Donna Hardesty and Joni Ohler publicize a new season for the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

Mr. R. James Risk named school superintendent

Mr. R. James Risk replaced 25-year veteran Warren Phillips as superintendent of Valparaiso Community Schools. Mr. Myron Knauff, formerly administrations assistant, became assistant superintendent this year.

The office secretaries, Mrs. Kay Sherer, receptionist, Mrs. Grace Rickard, treasurer of community schools, Mrs. Isabelle Froenicke, payroll clerk, Mrs. Sheila Thompson, bookkeeper, and a new secretary, Mrs. Le Verne Galligani were part of the machinery that made the administration run smoothly.

Mr. Garth Johnson, VHS principal, always left his door open to student problems and conflicts. Mr. C. J. Doane, vice-principal, completed his sixth year as athletic director.

Board fills vacancy; selects Bender

Mr. Norman Bender replaced Mr. Joseph Durand on the Board of Education for the 1970-71 school year.

The board continued its plans for the new high school. Once a month, at least two members met with the architect for an on-site inspection of the school. Over 150 hours of studying and discussing culminated in the hiring of a new superintendent, R. James Risk. In addition, the board met every month to discuss such problems as the budget.

Teachers engage in other activities besides teaching. One might find teachers chaperoning riotous pep busses, coaching teams, directing plays, freezing on hayrides, sponsoring clubs, supervising pep rallies, and sitting in the teachers' lounge talking about trivial matters. Faculty members even offered their services as actors!

Nine teachers and four study hall supervisors increased the VHS faculty to 59.

Officers and programs run harmoniously

Cathy Douglas

Pat Stokes

Charlotte Ransom

Billy Stordeur

As one of the four secretaries who worked at VHS, Mrs. Charlotte Ransom, secretary to the guidance counselors, scheduled appointments for the students. Mrs. Billie Stordeur, worked with the grade cards and tabulated senior rank. Mrs. Cathy Douglas handled the books and all the financial business at VHS. Looking behind the scenes at the library is Mrs. Pat Stokes. She ordered new books and helped run the library efficiently.

COOKS: Alma Montoney, Mahel Proctor, Bernice Brunicon, Lillie Winters, Lucille Walker.

Staffs maintain school appearance, spirit

The maintenance staff kept the VHS halls clean after its remodeling last summer. The men answered daily distress calls, and Mrs. Jones tackled the job of "picking up after the kids" in the rooms after school.

The cooks helped celebrate the holidays by cooking food to fit the appropriate occasion. On the days of home games, the cooks wore green and white to emphasize their school spirit.

The nine members of the cafeteria staff helped the cooks by doing dishes, getting supplies, assisting the cooks, and selling ice cream.

MAINTENANCE STAFF: Galen Marsh, A. W. Dickson, Charles Clemens, Frances Jones, Thomas Schultz.

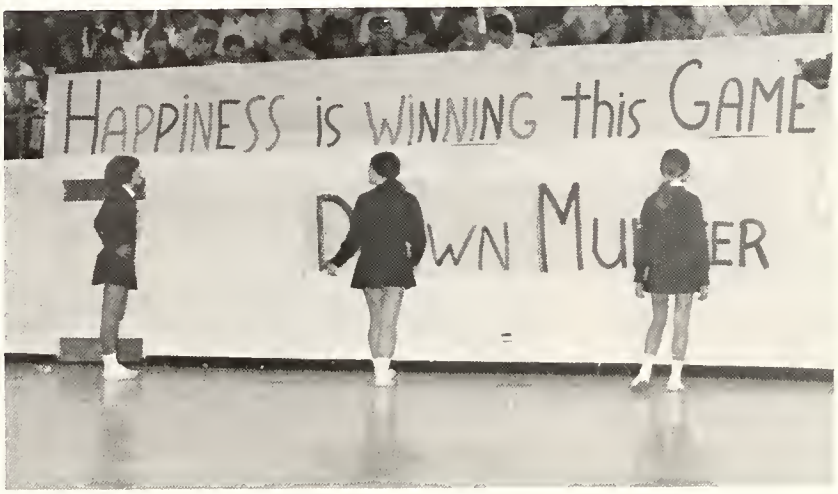
WE ARE THE SOPHOMORES . . .

. . . who brought "new" ideas and promises to "old" VHS . . .

. . . who supported good ol' VHS with the same faithfullness as that of the juniors and seniors . . .



. . . who chose our class rings carefully . . .

. . . for we knew that a class ring is a symbol of our life at VHS . . .

. . . who were the novices for an entire year . . .

. . . who learned that green and white is really a language and a way of life, not just coordinating colors . . .

. . . who learned that the life of a student contains paths of varied interest . . .

. . . yes, we are the sophomores . . .

. . . the class of '73 . . .

Mr. Evar Edquist, coach and teacher at VHS for six years, died last summer of a heart attack. He taught economics, civics, driver training, and sociology. He coached track, cross country, and sophomore basketball.

The type for the 1971 Valenian was set in Melior Regular and Melior Bold by Delmar Printing Company of Charlotte, North Carolina. Opening section was set in ten point bold, heads in 18 point bold, and captions in eight point bold. Body copy was set in ten point regular.

In retrospect,
what can I say?
That this year will remain
unequaled
in VHS history? . . .

That this Valenian has said something profound?

That would sound like a legend called
"Senior Myth."

Let me say instead
That we all learned a little more about Life and Ourselves.

That seventeen girls and one boy
came together and called themselves
"Valenian staff," and they worked hard . . .

sometimes.

That four seniors and one junior joined forces and called themselves
"Editors," and they worked together . . .

sometimes,
but they always worked.

Thank you, Mary
Peg
Linda
Connie
Mary,
for sacrificing study halls and lunch hours,
week-ends and vacations,
for staying hours after school in a cold room
in a deserted school;

And thank you more for teaching me to remember that in all darkness
there is light
And "the sunshine follows the rain."

Carl Kalinka makes a practice drive to keep in form for the Crown Point sectional.

Golfers go to regional, win 2nd at sectional

A trip to the LaPorte regional and trophies at both the sectional and the Lake Hills Invitational highlighted the golfers' successful season.

Although the Vikings ranked eleventh in the regional, they finished second in the Crown Point sectional and, earlier in the season, placed second out of 40 teams at the Lake Hills Invitational.

Coach Cain felt that one of the outstanding players on the team was Carl Kalinka. He said, "Carl Kalinka is the best golfer I've seen in four years." Carl received two trophies for the lowest season average and tied for medalist at the sectional.

Coaches pool efforts to retain track program

Coaches Stokes, Reggie, and Pollock pooled their time and efforts to retain the track program whose future looked dim after the death of Coach Edquist.

Although the team ran a limited schedule of only five meets, 81 boys turned out February 1 for the first day of practice. Some of the "cindermen" attended practice sessions to keep in shape but did not actually compete in the meets.

Vikings capture sectional for fourth straight year

Coach Rhoda's Varsity team captured the sectional for the fourth straight year by beating East Gary and Wheeler. Both contests proved to be thrillers with Valpo trailing 3-1 until late in each game before finally seizing the championship.

When asked about the season, team captain, Steve Malasto, said, "A lot of our wins depended on the fact that we never gave up. Even if we were losing, we'd keep on goin' and finally pull through in the clutch."

Mike Frey won the award for the highest batting average and Bill Schnure for the highest fielding average.

The team will lose nine graduating lettermen, but several promising underclassmen can be counted on to fill their spots.

Morphis wins solo award, group acts tie

For the first time, solo and group acts received awards for their outstanding performances in MARCH MADNESS. Of the 21 acts, Paula Morphis' won the solo award singing "We've Only Just Begun". Dixieland Band's performance tied with Cindy Crawford and Melanie Wellner's act. The winners received free dinners at local restaurants.

In late April, "Up the Down Staircase", a Drama and Debate production, explored the emotions that students and teachers felt in a give and take situation. Scenes illustrated empathy felt for the teacher, Sylvia Barrett, by her students, apathy experienced by Joe Ferrone, a student, and trust that grew between them.

Members of D&D travelled to Chicago to dine at Mr. Kelly's and see the play, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown", with the proceeds they earned from productions.

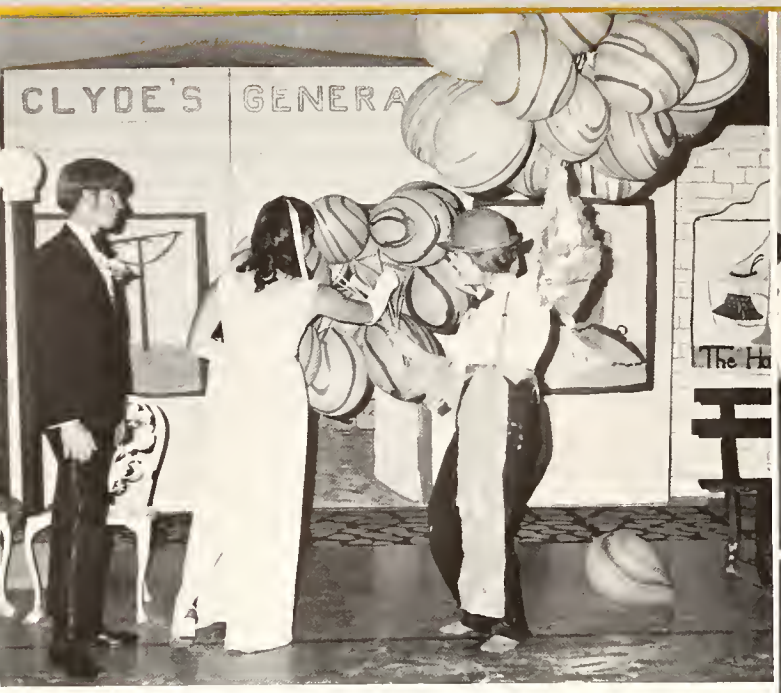
Rock band changes mood of Grand March

May 21, 1971 was an evening to relive the era of silent films, cobblestone walks, and ice cream parlors. Cafe La Korb with its lemonade and ice cream, the gazebo for the band, and the old store fronts created the feeling that "Those Were the Days". However, reminiscing stopped there. VHS brought a rock band instead of the usual ballroom music for dancing — and dance they did.

The highlight of the evening was the Grand March. As the couples started the traditional promenade, they heard strains of music that became louder and grew in excitement. The couples looked at each other with disbelief. "I can't believe it! Grand March music is, 'I Wanna Take You Higher'. For a full 20 minutes, "Just Before Dark" kept the excitement up to an all time high.

There weren't enough chairs to sit down, but who wanted to? The whole week of work and the endless days of anticipation reached a climax!

Miss Hutchinson, Junior class sponsor, becomes "one of the girls" during the painting of the cobblestone sidewalks. About 50 Juniors contributed more than 60 hours of hard work to make their Prom a success.



"Most people say Proms are bummers, but...

...this one is really fabulous!"

GAA members bundle up for a cool day's picnic banquet at Forest Park to celebrate newly elected officer presentations.

Banquets remain unchanged

They came, they ate, they waited — then pandemonium. The atmosphere was one of anxiety as all the nominees awaited the announcement of the newly elected officers at the annual spring banquets.

Traditions were maintained as most clubs gave a symbolic rose to the new officers. The only real changes were the names, the faces, and the menus.

At the VALENIAN-VALPOST banquet, NBC news reporter, Keith Klein, tells of humorous journalism goofs.

Baccalaureate combines with graduation

"What do I do now?" was the question that some of the 306 graduates asked themselves on June 10. Emotions were the usual feeling of accomplishment, relief, or uncertainty.

The gym was packed to capacity because baccalaureate was combined with graduation exercises after a storm left St. Paul's without electricity on the scheduled night.

Mr. R. James Risk gave his first graduation speech along with Bonnie Hahn, valedictorian, and Andy Barber's, salutatorian, addresses. Principal Garth Johnson gave his remarks to the graduates of the class of '71 along with a handshake and the coveted diploma.

Then it was over, the "grads" walked out of the gym to the familiar "Pomp and Circumstance" and into the world.

Bonnie Hahn, valedictorian, addresses the students at their final meeting.

Pat Burge becomes an official graduate when she receives her diploma from Mr. Johnson.

At Jeff Butterfield's (class president) command, the class turns their tassels in unison.
